Last year's senior class project brought lights to the Grove. The lights, which cost close to $80,000, were installed during April and have made the Grove a much safer place at night. This year's project, shown above, is to renovate the houses located behind Faulkner's home.

Oxford

A lot of homage should be paid to the town of Oxford and its people. This historic little place in Mississippi is home to more than ten-thousand students each year and Oxonians help preserve the feeling that there really is "a home away from home." It is ironic but true to say that many Oxford merchants see more of the first-hand transitions we are making into young adulthood than our parents. It is not uncommon to see the same ladies behind the counter at Rainbow, have the same waitresses at the Beacon, see the same people in Kiamies or Oxford Floral, or to engage in lenthy conversations with the same man at Quick Shop. Often the merchants in Oxford are the first people to really allow the students to get their first work experience. This close-knit community doesn't mind expanding its boundries year after year to include a new group of students. From becoming loyal members of the churches to being loyal patrons of a favorite watering-hole, students become an integral part of the town and are welcomed with open arms.

Southern Tradition

"Tell about the South. What's it like there? What do they do there? Why do they live there? Why do they live at all? — William Faulkner Absolam! Absolam!

It is hard to separate what Ole Miss was yesterday and is today from the South. Both Ole Miss and the South have an intriguing flair that attracts both flattery and scorn. We have a fascinating attraction here that draws people from all over. We also have a rich southern tradition that becomes an eminant part of everyone at Ole Miss. Like the South, Ole Miss is undoubtably shadowed by a part of both triumph and controversy. From this overbearing presence of our past, surfaces the tradtions that give our university a distinct character. In order to understand where we are today, we must have respect for our turburlent past, while not dwelling on it. We cannot ignore it, but instead learn from it, and move ahead. It has been 28 years since the James Meredith controversy, and still racial issues are at the core of the universities problems. Undoubtably we have moved ahead. Now, there is an ongoing understanding between all students, faculty, and administration with a growing empathy for each other's needs. We all know that there is more to Ole Miss than a social enviornment, and it goes beyond people who still choose to wave rebel flags and those who protest the flag. The beauty of Ole Miss reaches beyond its fascinating surroundings, it is the people who value this beauty. There is a prevelant sense of community at Ole Miss. We have proved that we can definitely come together in times of need and times of prosperity. Our community is one of our most valuable qualities, and is evident in everyday life. From the community we get our great sense of pride in the university and its tradition that has been constant through the years. Being an intricate part of the South is something in which all students at Ole Miss should be proud of. A Southern heritage helped create the Ole Miss we know today. For over 140 years the people that make up the university have faced and suffered the same trials as the South, and celebrated the same victories. Although some of our traditions are controversial, our legacy should always be honored. It is easy to look behind us and see how far we have come, however, if we plan to prevail we need not to lose sight of how far we need to go. By Allison Hooker.

Way down South in Mississippi there's a spot that ever calls,
Where among the hills enfolded stand ole Alma Mater's halls,
Where the trees lift high their branches to the whispering Southern breeze,
There Ole Miss is calling, calling to our hearts' fond memories.

With united hearts we praise thee, all our loyalty is thine,
and we hail thee, Alma Mater, may thy light forever shine;
May it grow brighter and brighter, and with deep affection true,
Our thoughts shall ever cluster 'round thee, dear Ole Red and Blue.

May thy fame thoughout thy nation, through my sons and daughters grow;
May thy name forever waken in our hearts a tender glow.
May thy counsel and thy spirit ever keep us one in this,
That our own shall be thine honor, now and ever, dear Ole Miss.

People

One of the most important things about Ole Miss is the people. Everyone who comes on to campus is touched by the legacy that makes our school what it is today. Not only are the students affected by what transpires here, but the faculty, their children, the people of Oxford and people from outside as well. The ever-changing attitudes towards academics, social clubs, organizations and athletics help keep the opinions flowing as to what it is that really makes up Ole Miss. The answer however, is not found in the number of games the football team won, or the average our entering freshman are scoring on the ACT, or the size of the recent endowment fund, or the politics of the people in the Lyceum. The answer to what makes up Ole Miss is found in the people. The everyday students you see walking to class or sitting in the Grove or out front of the sorority house. They are not the unapproachable people others make them out to be. They are not the materialistic Southern generations so sterotyped with Ole Miss. They are the friendly folk, who will stop and talk at length if given the chance. They are the kind that would rather take the afternoon off from classes, and sometimes do. They are the ones you will see heading out to Sardis for a day in the sun, or the ones retreating to their rooms for a nap. The people of Ole Miss come in all shapes and sizes, all colors and all languages. They make up the diversity of the University and add uniquness and character.

Homecoming

The Ole Miss campus was stirring Homecoming Week 1990. It began with activities in the Grove and ended with everyone celebrating the 18th ranked Rebels victory over Arkansas State on Saturday. Homecoming is a time of traditon at Ole Miss and one of the traditions is crowning the Queen. Janie Holman, elected Queen in a campus-wide election was crowned at half-time by the president of the Alumni Association. During the week the Student Programming Board sponsored music and tye-dying in the Grove. Another tradition carried on was the float competition. This year students went to extremes to give the campus the most spirited floats ever. Chi Omega sorority won with the theme "A New Beat to An Old Song." The annual Homecoming pep rally on the square brought students and faculty together with the people of Oxford to rouse spirits for the game that eventually took us to 6-1. Despite all the week's activities many teachers still gave tests.

Truly there is no week quite like Homecoming. It is always the busiest most happening week of the fall semester. Homecoming 1990 was especially special with our strong football team drawing more fans and alums together. Many students and their families enjoyed the musical production of "Peter Pan" on Friday night. The day of the game itself had the campus boiling over with people. There was hardly a space in the Grove after 8 a.m. The open houses and bands added to the spirit of the day. Of course the tailgating parties couldn't be overlooked. No where else in the nation could have had a bigger or better tailgating celebration than in the Grove on October 20, 1990. People from all over will always come back to Ole Miss to take part in an exclusive tradtion known as Ole Miss Homecoming.

Legacy

While riding around campus with my grandfather who was here in the early 1940's, it is obvious how much he still remembers and cherishs his college days. It wasn't too long ago that we were talking and he told me of the pranks they used to play while living in Barr dormoritory and then later in George. He spoke of pranks that I can't even envision him being a part of because they are so uncharacteristic of the man I know now. Why I remember this day so vividly is obvious. While he spoke that day I thought of myself ten, twenty, even thirty years from now, coming back to Ole Miss and telling someone with me of the things we used to do in Martin-Stockard. I thought of all the times when I ride past my old dorm, even now, and wish that I could still be a part of that. I wish I could go back to the first day I came to Ole Miss and start things over again, knowing some of the things I know now. I think it is inevitable that as time goes on we will all want back part of what time has stolen from us. College has taught me a lot about myself and a lot about what to expect from people as you begin to associate with a variety of people and mix with other cultures and other ways of life. College has taught me to understand why other people are different and to appreciate the individuality that makes each one of us who we are. It has been in the past four years that I have learned that not everyone wants to take a solid hold of the things offered to them in life. Many people who I see now who are apethetic to all that surrounds them, I see growing up that way, never taking advantage of the things out there, just beyond their reach. I hadn't planned on coming to Ole Miss as a senior at Hattiesburg High school. I had reservations about what it would be like. All during my senior year however, my grandfather pushed me to come to Ole Miss. It was his alma mater and he was Colonel Reb here. I see now that his wanting me to come to school here had much more to do than with just my getting an academic education. It had to do with what he had gotten out of Ole Miss and how he knew that it still had many of those same things to offer me. If my decision concerning college had been different, not only would I have missed out on all the things that make me who I am, I would have missed out on that day in the car with my grandfather. A day when I saw through someone else's eyes the fact that no matter how far away from Ole Miss you go, it never really leaves you. —

Scenery

Over the years as the campus has matured with the University and slowly begun to merge more completely with the town of Oxford, the beauty of the campus has grown stronger. In times where people are tearing things down and turning once free fields into concrete parking lots, the beauty of Ole Miss has remained. A few years ago when it was proposed to use part of the Grove to help alleviate the parking problem, not only student and faculty, but alumni as well protested adamantly. Instead of plowing through the land that comprises Ole Miss, buildings are erected around the land, in a way that almost pays tribute to the original landscape. The campus is a centerpeice to a beautiful town and beautiful surroundings. Everywhere you go from Faulkners to Sardis lake, nature and beauty go untouched and undisturbed.

Ole Miss

Over the years Ole Miss has evolved into a place to come home to, a place where memories are held sacred and where people will always feel a part of the place they lived their college days. To look around at the things and places that make Ole Miss what it is, is to understand what it is that makes up a really great college town.

Student Life

A Legacy of Activities

Student life at Ole Miss has a pretty broad definition. Everyday there is a wide variety of activites to choose from, and the Ole Miss student who can't find something to do hasn't looked very hard. School sponsored pagents, plays, productions, art showings, sporting events, fund-raisers and picnics are just a few of the offerings on an everyday basis. But student life can incorporate so much more. A typical day could be filled with learning all about a new scientific breakthrough, talking endlessly in the Grove with the person you just met in class, or just catching up on the latest on "Days of our Lives," or ESPN. However an Ole Miss student spends their days, one thing is for sure, they will look back on these times as some of the best in their lives.

Beth Howell has held virtually every position at Ole Miss. She has been in the spotlight since she came to the University four years ago. Her ease and grace on the stage began here in Fulton Chapel, when she took the title as a freshman of Most Beautiful. Since then she has continued to be a highlighted campus face, as she is on the University modeling board, was a Pike calendar girl, was the University's best dressed co-ed, is an officer for Delta Gamma sorority, and is actively pursuing a pharmacy degree. Beth won the title of Miss Dixie in 1989, and took the title of Miss Mississippi in late spring 1990. Beth prepared all summer for her day in Atlantic City; keeping fit and perfecting her magic act which she dazzeled the judges with. In the Miss America pageant all eyes were on Beth, as the women from Mississippi are always some of the toughest contenders. However, competition in the Miss America pageant was even tougher, and Beth failed to finish in the top ten. She did however walk away with a preliminary swimsuit award and memories of an experience very few people ever get the chance to live.

New structures taking shape

State and national funding kept contractors on the move as new buildings rise out of the ground around campus.

Dodging construction cites this year has been a common occurance as buildings and renovations dotted the campus. By far the most eye-catching constuction work was taking place on the renovation of Barnard Observatory, located near sorority row, in the place where the old Chancellor's house once stood. The buidling was thoroughly sanded down and washed, stripped and repainted over the course of the year. Work on this $2.5 million restoration began in early fall and it is projected that the building will be ready for occupation by the fall. The building will house the Center for the Study of Southern Culture

Another much needed and anticipated addition to campus is the building of a new Student Health Service building. The new building is located behind Meek Hall and will house offices for several university physicians and will include an in-house pharmacy. The larger, more modern building will allow the health service to expand and provide students with a variety of services. Completion of the building is projected for early summer.

One project that recently received funding is the Natural Products center, which will be located between Coulter and Faser Halls. The project is a several million dollar undertaking and will allow pharmacy students to pursue their studies in a much advanced envoirnment. The Natural Products center will not be completed for several years. It will be the only one of its kind in the southern United States.

Natural Products Center

Groundbreaking cermonies for the Natural Products Center, which will be located between Coulter and Faser Halls took place last fall. This multi-million dollar center will substantially enhance the knowledge and research capabilities of the Ole Miss School of Pharmacy. Although the center will not be completed for several years, architects have made plans for the building and preliminary work will begin in the Fall. Ole Miss will have technological research capabilites when this federal and state funded center is completed. Pictured above are groundbreaking ceremonies that took place at the cite in Fall 1990.

Student Health Services

The Ole Miss student health services building has been another very visible construction project on campus. The building which is located behind Meek Hall will allow university staffed-physicians to give more up-to-date and complete health care to Ole Miss students. The center is near completion and should be able to begin operations in the immediate future. The new center will offer a variety of health care amenities.

Barnard Observatory

The $2 million renovation on Barnard Observatory will be completed in mid-spring and will house the Center for the Study of Southern Culture. The state-funded project has been the most visible on campus as restoration on the 133 year old building took place throughout the year. Construction on the building was planned so that the original look of the building would not be lost.

A Night On The Town

Any night of the week is the perfect time for a little socialing.

▲1 Mary Linda Dahlke

Planning for a night out begins as early as breakfast. While glancing over the Daily Mississippian, students scan the pages for bands, drink specials and other enticements which will lure them away from their studies and into downtown Oxford. Van Buren and Jackson Ave. are filled with cars on any given night, as students don't wait until the weekend to meet their friends for a dirnk. With more than five bars to choose from it is hard to predict where the place will be. During 1990 students watched as Syd and Harrys became officially known as Syds, and 11th Street bar and Grill switched names several times. For the students though names changes didn't matter, it was Oxford and it was a night out on the town. Since Oxford likes to shut down early and the students don't, Ole Miss is famous for late-nights . . . which you can also find any given night if you look hard enough.

Persian Gulf Crisis

Students watched as the crisis escalated into war and then turned into liberation.

It all happened so fast. August 2, Iraqi troops invaded Kuwait and by mid-month the United States and other United Nations countries had begun deploying troops to Saudi Arabia. The nation watched as the crisis was evaluated from all standpoints. Many said the U.S. involvement was purely economical, others said the U.S. was protecting the lives and human rights of thousands of Kuwait citizens. Mississippians watched as multiple National Guard and reserve units were activated and brothers, fathers, mothers, sisters and sons were sent first to training sites and then to the Gulf. On the homefront anticipation and gas prices both escalated as the U.N. gave Saddam Hussein a January 15th deadline to withdraw his troops from the area. When he did not the U.S. and British forces were the first to begin bombing exercises and in less than two months, with only a minimal number of American causalities, successfully accomplished the liberation of that region.

Battle of the Buldge

As students fought the battle of the buldge, the war really heated up between the health clubs.

So many temptations at college these days, keep us away from aerobics and the stairmasters and on the couch with a nice plate full of pasta. It seems that with studying and partying, and many students working, there wasn't enough time during the day to get out and get daily exercise. The inticements to get that exercise were many this year, as the battle between Flex One Fitness Center and Body Plex turned into an all out war. Both places have stairmasters, both places offer bench-step aerobics, both places are great places to go to workout, and both places want your business. In newspaper advertisements, on the radio and in special discounts to new members and limited membership offers, both places encouraged students to take that step to better health. Many students found the increased efforts of the businesses just the right time for them to begin taking better care of themselves. Students who don't opt for the organized workout effort can be seen daily walking, jogging and running along University avenue and the Square, taking off last night's calories in a more personal and self-satisfying way.

Sigma Nu Charity Bowl

Fraternities battle it out on the football field for team players who are sitting this one out.

It all began last year when Sigma Nu member Billy Courtney read in the Clarion Ledger that 17-year-old Allen Moore, a linebacker for Northeast Lauderdale High School had been severely injured during a football game. Moore had sustained a neck injury during a weekend football game and was paralzed from the neck down. It only took a short time for Courtney and other Sigma Nu members to rally enough support to put together the first annual Charity Bowl.

Sigma Nu solicited bids from other fraternities for an opponent in the bowl game. Phi Delta Theta won the bid by putting up $1,000. The Ole Miss athletic department donated equipment for the game and Oxford High School allowed the teams to stage the bowl in the football staduim. Pregame fundraising activites included pizza specials by Domino's, with fifty cents of every purchase going to Moore and a Bud Light party which raised $1,000.

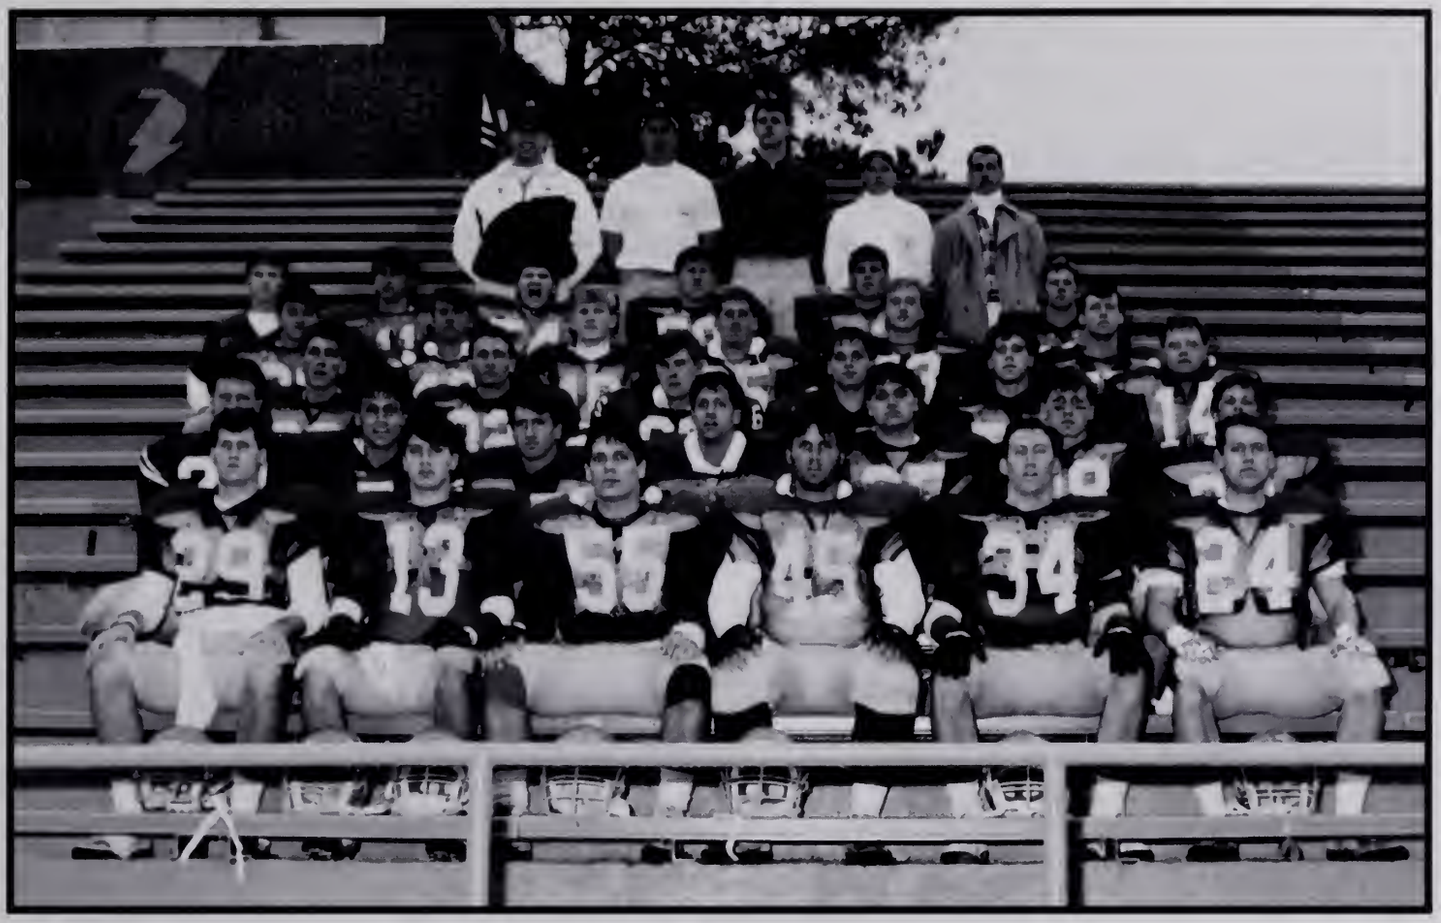

The night of the bowl game was wet and very cold, but students came out to support a young man that very few of knew. The game was attended by Rebel head coach Billy Brewer and was announced by Sparky Reardon. It was a close game throughout, but Sigma Nu managed to edge out Phi Delt 19 — 10.

Overall, more than $15,000 was raised for Moore. Contributions were garnered from local, state and national sources.

In 1991, Sigma Nu once again will be playing for an injured football player, this time for Kevin Graham. Graham is a 16-year-old Sumrall high school player who is paralayed from the chest down, also stemming from a neck injury sustained during a high school game. On March 1, Sigma Nu will be taking on Sigma Chi and all proceeds will go to Graham in the name of former Ole Miss player Chucky Mullins.

Election Day

Getting bombarded with offers for rides, nametags, and overall apathy descibe election day at Ole Miss.

It happens four or five times a year. It is election day and the campus wakes up to the sound of campaign breakfasts and shoe polish being cracked open. Elections are very important because they give the students a chance to voice their opinions and really make a difference if they want to. Unfortunatly, the only thing memorable about the thousand or so people who do choose to vote, is the long and winding road leading to the polls. This road is usually filled with girls, signs, nametags and a few promises lost in the wind as the road stretches out.

Having come back to Oxford and settled into a familiar routine of going to class and making public appearance, injured Ole Miss football player Chucky Mullins, is making a new life for himself and using his position to help others do the same. Chucky was seen this year in a variety of roles, but most touching and heartfelt was his support for injured football player Kevin Graham. Not only did Chucky sit by him at the Ole Miss-MSU game, but he will also be present to support the youth during the Charity Bowl held in his honor. Chucky has made many strides in his physical recovery and has proven to be an inspiration to all the student and faculty who have gotten a chance to meet him.

Theatre Season

Theatre season offers a variety of plays which will entertain and delight entire family

From family fare to frank contemporary drama, the 1990-91 University theatre season offered something to appeal to every age and interest. The two musicals, "Peter Pan" and "Little Mary Sunshine" and dramas by Tennesse Williams and Sam Shepard were some of the featured presentations.

Department of Theatre arts chairman Jim Shoollenberger said of the season that it was "one of the best-balanced seasons we've offered in some time." He said the season was a nice mix of comedy and drama.

Opening the season on September 13-15 was the long-running Broadway hit, "Two for the Seesaw," a comedy by William Gibson set in the Bronx. It is a love story about Gittel and Jerry, two mis-matched lovers, who fufill each other's needs and emerge as winners.

"Peter Pan", this year's Homecoming musical ran October 18-20 and featured spectacular technical effects. The lead character took to the air, via a flying aparatus that was identical to the one used on Broadway and installed for this production by the famous Foy Brothers of Las Vegas. Ole Miss had wanted to bring this musical to campus for many years, but were unable to until this year when technical renovations to Fulton chapel made it possible.

"A Lie of the Mind," was a Pulitzer-winning play by Sam Shepard came to Fulton chapel on November 29-December 1. The play which was horrifying and hilarious explores the destiny of two families, linked by marriage but set apart by jealousies and mistrust.

"Little Mary Sunshine" went to the stage February 14-16. The musical was a theatrical spoof of the theatrical cliches of the 1920's. Little Mary Sunshine runs a lodge in the Rockies and is in danger of being evicted. To her rescue come the Colorado Rangers, who are all in love with her.

Showstoppers, the ever-popular song and dance revue of Broadway and off-Broadway numbers helped round-out the season on March 21-22. Showstoppers is always a crowd pleasing production and draws a crowd.

The Ole Miss theatre groups put on about six productions each year, which are staged, directed and star Ole Miss students and often members of the local community. The tickets to these shows are sold to all students and are offered free to persons who become patrons and sponsors of the University Theatre.

Love is in the Air

It doesn't have to be Valentine's Day to find that special someone to call your own.

Everyday of the week is "couple time" in Oxford. You can find the typical couple anywhere. From the Grove, to the Union, to Oxford Floral, where the girl is subtley pointing to the perfect piece of Gail Pittman, they are there. It wasn't so long ago that young girls came to Ole Miss and graduated with little more than their MRS. degree, and some still do, but now the pairing off is a little more equal and the stakes a little bit higher. Couples now compete with one another in the same classes and often edge each other out for jobs. But the romance still blossoms, as the typical Southern girl still likes to be pursued by the boy. . .flowers, dinner, the entire bit. Ole Miss is the perfect place to come to meet a mate, and many find that the best way to spend their college days is as a two-some.

The home away from home

Whether it is coping with the dorm, or adjusting to roomates, your first time to live alone is an experience.

Freshman have to live on campus and many sorority girls are forced to live there all four years. Living alone, or away from home for the first time, is difficult for many people to adjust to. It is a time when you can finally keep your things the way you want them, and play your stero as loud as you want. It is also a time when you will finally have to do your own laundry and feed yourself. Living arrangements vary at Ole Miss, but learning to survive is part of making the transition away from home.

Responding to the Environment

Taking better care of the environment is proving to be a good idea as we enter a new decade

All over campus efforts were made this year to try and clean up what decades of useless waste and ignorance has produced. In addition to the millions of tons of paper and aluminum wastes that go unrecycled every year, environmental groups targeted the Oxford landfill and other sites that are proving to be environmentally unsafe. In late spring Earth Day was held not only in Oxford, but around the nation. Groups all over stressed the importance of maintaining what we have now in the way of ozone layer, pollution control and recycling efforts. On a local scale Kroger continued to take bottles, plastics and aluminum throughout the year. Several offices on campus began to recycle high-grade computer paper later in the year. Students put the wheels in motion this year to make the world a better and safer place, and they are starting with our own hometown.

Traditions to Continue

Each year brings new places and faces to campus and allows for memorable occasions that will last for years.

▲ 1 August Laurent

Each year there are memorable events that will stand out as the events that helped to shape the year. Every student sees the campus and the happenings of it in a different way and many things that are important to one may not be important to another. This year was remarkable because of the number of events that took place that were significant to the growth and culture of the campus. Ole Miss offers a variety of places and times for events to cultivate, and the divesity of the student attending Ole Miss always allows for interesting things to happen.

1. The rebirth of Checquers on University avenue was a pleasant surprise to students looking for an alternative in eating. 2. Afro-Olympics held in February was the first event sponsored by the black fraternitys and sororities which combined all the Greeks in competition.

Grove

The Grove is a quiet place that offers a peaceful retreat

The Grove and the area around it provides a haven for anyone wanting to escape for a moment without leaving campus. During homecoming the Grove is filled with the sounds of the University Band and students and alumni who flood this area to lunch and to cheer on the Rebels. During the spring it is often the stage for concerts and various SPB events. But on an everyday basis the Grove is a place to respect, a place to retreat, a place that is cherished by all who associate this patch of land with Ole Miss. Often students spill out of the Grove onto the porch and around the Union. This area gives anyone who loves to watch people a perfect place to sit and soak up some sun.

A Legacy of Beauty

Ole Miss is known for its beauty, not only in its campus, but also in its people. It has been said that Ole Miss has some of the prettiest girls in the state, and we have found this to be true, as we see our girls going on to become Miss Mississippi's and even Miss America's. However, the great majority of these girls possess something even more extraordinary than their external beauty, and that is what is inside them. It is the way that these girls mature into women during their years here, and leave us with a lasting impression of their friendliness and sincerity.

The word "beauty" is synonomous with Rhonda Jones. This senior fashion merchandising major from Memphis is also a model and has been featured in magazines and videos. Ole Miss Favorites

For the first time in the history of Ole Miss favorites, male favorites were chosen this year. In a bill introduced last year in the A.S.B. senate calling for the proposal of male favorites, it stipulated the addition of males names to the ballot during the fall general election and that favorites would be named as five girls and five guys. This measure was passed and with student support males were added and elected for the first time. Many of the guys chosen, although deep down they felt it was an honor, were reluctant to make it into any big deal. Britton Ousley, a female favorite this year, felt that it was only fair that males be able to participate. "There aren't enough things such as elected honors that the guys get to participate in," she said. "I think it's great they were added onto the ballot."

Ole Miss Favorites

Jenny Roberts

Jenny Roberts just seems to be all over the Features pages this year. First back in November she was named an Ole Miss beauty and then in the fall election Chi Omega put her up for favorite and out of a field of very stiff competition she was elected. As a senior Jenny has given her time and participation to many Ole Miss organizations and because she is so attractive, inside and out, she has received some of the biggest honors by being named as a beauty for three years and as sweetheart for Sigma Nu. After graduation this year, Jenny plans to pursue a career teaching elementary school.

Always taking time to stop and talk, this senior hotel and resturant management major from Memphis, has also become involved with a variety of activities on campus. Lacey is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and during 1989 served as sweetheart for Phi Delta Theta fraternity. While maintaining a 3.0 GPA, this political science major from Madison, isn't sure when he will graduate but he says when he does he will get a job that will make him rich. While at Ole Miss Kevin has served as rush chairman for his fraternity Pi Kappa Alpha and as a Kappa Delta houseboy.

Ole Miss Favorties

Cherry Busby

Junior Cherry Busby is no stranger to the spotlight and this year it was Ole Miss rather than the Miss America pageant that put her there. In 1989, after Cherry won the Miss Mississippi pageant in Vicksburg she preapred all summer to compete in the Miss America pageant. Although she didn't walk away with the crown, it was definitly an experience she won't soon forget. Here at Ole Miss, Cherry is a member of Phi Mu.

Phil McCarty

Phil, a senior broadcast journalism major from Clinton, is a very diverse person who this year served as director of the Student Programming Board. Phil has also been an A.S.B. senator, vice-chairman of the Senate rules cmt., Miss University pageant director, an Ole Miss ambassador and a UMTV news anchor and newscast producer. This last year Phil served as Vice-President of Alpha Tau Omega.

1990 Miss University

Missy Hurdle

1990 Miss Black and Gold

Angela, a junior pre-med major from Oxford, will be serving the fraternity as their Sweetheart and is now eligible to go on to a national pageant that is a preliminary to Miss Mississippi. Angela, however, is accustomed to the spotlight. She has been named a campus beauty the past two years in the Parade of Beauties and is currently serving as a Rebelette. She is also a rebel recruiter and is a member of the University modeling board. Angela was also a top ten finalist in the 1989 Miss Mississippi pageant.

The Miss Black and Gold pageant was held on October 24, and the contestants were judged in bathing suit, talent and evening gown competiton. The were also asked to dance in a number called "Fair Weather Friend" and their intellectual ability was a factor in the judges decision.

Alpha Phi Alpha president Leo Emerson said prior to the pageant that the girl selected as Miss Black and Gold would be "a well-rounded woman who is intelligent, beautiful and articulate."

The proceeds of the Miss Black and Gold pageant were donated to the March of Dimes.

Sports

A Legacy of Competition

A competitive nature is instilled in most of us, and on the playing field that instinct turns into the drive to perform and to win. Ole Miss has always carried on a legacy of competition, extending to the playing field but not limited to it. Emerging from the ranks of the great Ole Miss competitors are those who continue to play and go on to become great champions long after they have left our university. It may have been at Ole Miss however, that these champions first felt the integrity brought about by honest teamwork and the thrill of a well-deserved victory.

Football

Lights only begin Rebels illuminating season

The saying "It's Time" was very appropriate for the first half of the 1991 football schedule. The season began for the first time in the history of Ole Miss football with a night game in Vaught-Hemingway stadium. With newly installed lights, the record crowd watched the day turn into night, and cheered the Rebels on to a 23-21 win against Memphis State. A game that was really closer than indicated by the 10-24 score, led the Rebels into the first loss of the season against Auburn in Jackson. The team that would dominate the Top 5 and the crowning spot in the S.E.C. for the rest of the first-half of the season, was too much for the Rebs. Nevertheless, crowd enthusiasm and a dedicated team helped the Rebs rebound from the loss on the road when they played newly joined S.E.C. and 13th ranked team Arkansas on September 22. This sellout game ended in a 21-17 finale with a last second save during the fourth quarter by Chris Mitchell. His stunning tackle during the final seconds of the game kept Arkansas running back Ron Dickerson out of the end zone. The next two home games against Tulane and Kentucky ended with marginal victories by the Rebels and earned the Rebs a bid into top 20 polls all over the nation. The Rebs took to the road again on October 13, ranked 17th in the nation and third in the S.E.C., and easily downed Georgia 28-12. With a five game winning streak talk of a possible bowl game began to circulate. That talk became more intense as the Rebs became 6-1 after easily defeating Arkansas State during homecoming 42-13. This was the successful first half of the Rebels 1991 season, but what lay ahead for the team were some of the most challenging and important games against top conference contenders. — al

Tennessee Time

It really was Tennessee time on November 17. In front of a record crowd of 66,467 and a national television audience the Ole Miss Rebels fell to the Tennessee Volunteers 22-13. The Memphis Liberty Bowl held one of the rowdiest and fired-up Rebel crowds in a long time, as the Rebels went to Memphis hoping to be able to secure a place at the top of the S.E.C. and get a chance to play in the Sugar Bowl. The Volunteers did not take long to take charge, the kick-off play was returned by the Vols to the Ole Miss 18 and with 12:50 left in the first quarter the Vols led 3-0. The rest of the first-half was marred by two lost fumbles and two costly interceptions. The Rebels were in the scoring zone four times in the first-half and did manage to put seven points on the board when Luke fired a seven-yard TD pass to Darrick Owens. The score at half-time was 10-7 Volunteers.

The second-half was dominated by more turnovers and mistakes, the Rebels missed a field goal and had an extra point blocked and then returned 97-yards for two points by Tennessee. Shows was able to throw an additional 29-yard TD pass with only 2:02 left in the game, but the Rebels still fell to the Volunteers 22-13.

After the game Coach Brewer was quoted as saying that maybe his team had "just tried to hard," but it seemed that luck was just not with the Rebels that day.

Egg Bowl

It had a slow start, but the Egg Bowl put the finishing touches on the best season that Rebel football has seen since the Archie Manning days of football. The only action that the Rebs saw in the first-half was an all-out brawl between the two teams that brought field players and players off the benches to a clash at mid-field. The Mississippi State Bulldogs managed a 40-yard field goal with only 8 minutes left in the half, closing the half with a 3-0 score.

During the second-half the Rebs came back strong. During third-quarter action Luke took the ball on a 32-yard run into the endzone with only 1:17 left in the quarter, the Rebels led 7-3. In the final quarter Courtney and Luke put an additional 14 points on the board for the Rebs. The Rebel defense was also on the move, during the entire second-half they only allowed the Dogs to put 6 more points on the board.

In front of the largest crowd to attend the Egg Bowl since 1983, the Rebs successfully finished the Dogs 21-9 and the season 9-2. The victory for the Rebs however, carried a double-edged sword as it put them one step closer to a bowl bid, but it marked the end of the career of MSU head coach Rockey Felker. — al.

Mazda Gator Bowl

It was in Jacksonville, Florida on New Year's Day 1991 that the Ole Miss Rebels took to the field in their 23 bowl game appearance. The Rebs were riding high after a 9-2 season and a 5-2 finish in the S.E.C.. Pregame commentary had the Rebs picked to finish behind their tough Big-Ten contenders, but Coach Brewer and his team felt confident going into the match-up. The game was the first bowl game aired on New Year's Day, with a 11:30 a.m. kick-off at Gator Bowl stadium.

It was not however quite the game that Brewer had been hoping for. He hoped the weather would have been a little warmer to distract the Michigan players. He had hoped that the Rebel offense would be able to pass the ball more for yardage. And he had hoped that Michigan speedster Desmond Howard wouldn't get to carry the ball that much.

But it was not a day when things would fall into place for the Rebels. Ole Miss was unable the entire day to run or pass the ball into the endzone. It was the first time the Rebels have gone without scoring a touchdown for 25 games, the last being in 1988 against Tulane.

It was however a day when small miracles did arise out of the Rebel team. Ole Miss place kicker Brian Lee's 51-yard field goal in the second quarter was a Gator Bowl record, breaking the previous record of 49 yards set in a 1977 game. Lee, who was just 3-13, this year, ended a three-month dry spell and set his personal best record.

Overall, the Rebs were handily defeated by the Michigan team 35-3, after a day of finely executed plays and long yardage runs by the Wolverine team. Coach Brewer cited his oppponent after the game by saying that they were defintely one of the most difficult teams they have played this year.

Rebel running back Randy Baldwin saw the game a little differently. "They were good all the way around," Baldwin said. "But, if I had to do all over again, I'd still like to play them."

Billy Brewer

Billy Brewer was named S.E.C. Coach of the Year by the Birmingham News and the Nashville Banner. It was not the first time in his eight-year coaching history at Ole Miss that Brewer had been recognized with the honor. In 1983 and 1986 he was named by AP and UPI as Coach of the Year. This year marked Brewer's four bowl appearance with the Rebels and his third time to coach them to victory. He helped the Rebel team finish with one of the best records (9-2) since 1970 and led them to a second place standing in the S.E.C.. Overall, Brewer takes his coaching record with Ole Miss to 48-40-3. He and the Rebs have already begun planning to make next season just as successful as 1990 was.

Rebs have a slow season

During spring play the Ole Miss Rebel baseball team coached by Don Kessinger was consistently defeated by other S.E.C. teams throughout the season. The Rebs began the season with three exhibition games in Louisiana attended by a large number of fans eager to catch the first round of baseball fever. The team held on to a marginal record throughout the first half of the season, but fell to 16-17 as they began heavy rounds with other S.E.C. contenders. UM pitchers Sullivan, Carlyle, Dixon, Joseph and Hines dominated the mound for the majority of the season and helped the team to win the majority of the 26 games that were played on Swayze field.

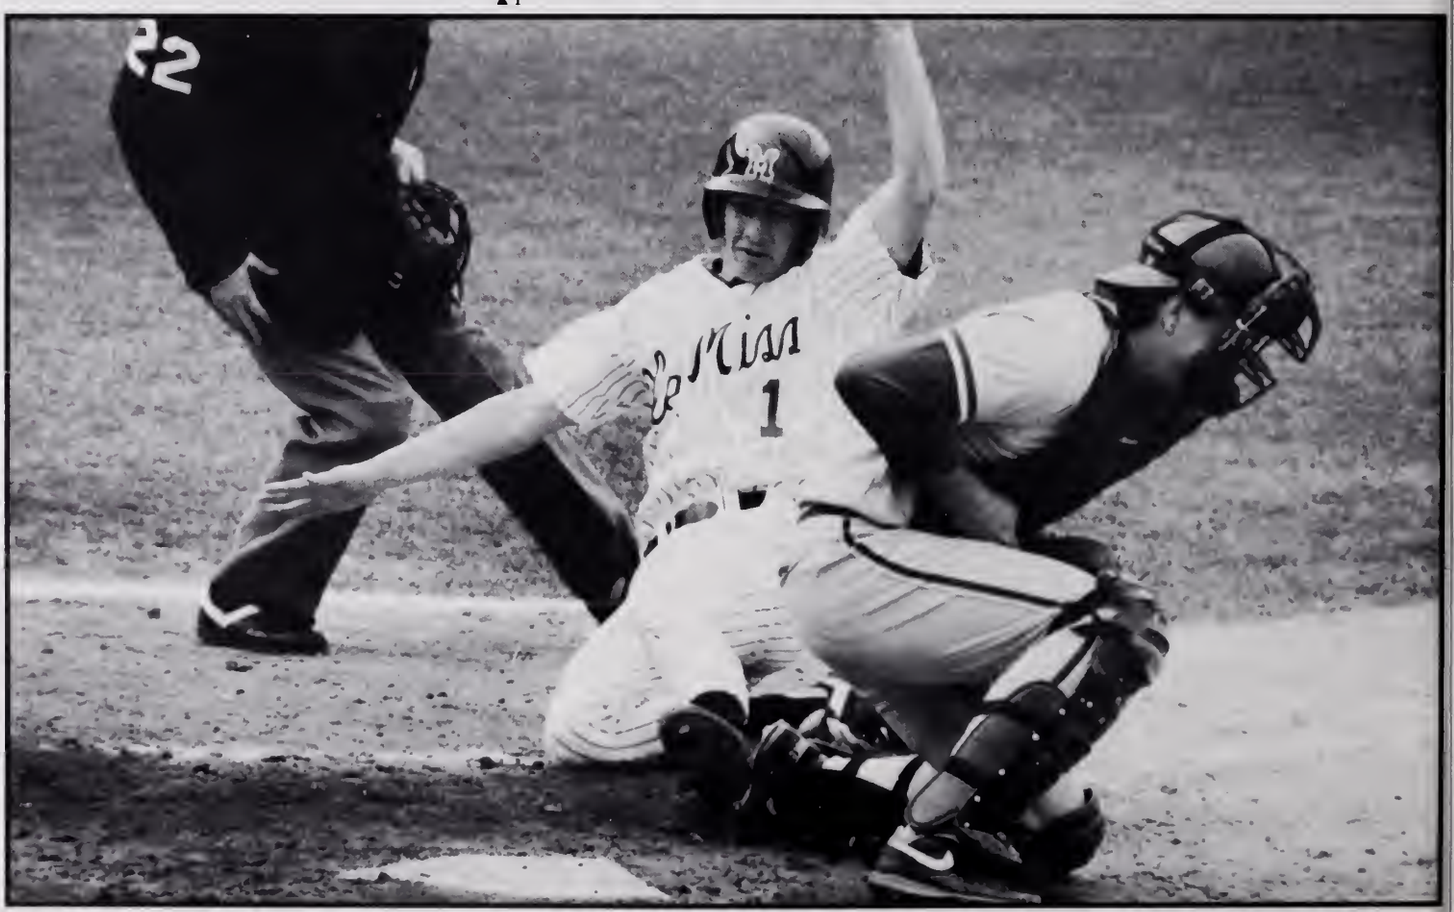

In overall S.E.C. action the Rebs, although never able to overcome L.S.U. or Mississippi State, did manage to win atleast one of the three games played against Auburn, Florida, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Georgia.

The Rebels ended the season after three months of consequtive play on May 13, when they were defeated twice by arch-rivals M.S.U. 0-17 and 0-9. The Rebs closed the season 23-29 overall; 10-16 in S.E.C action.

Rebel Team Sweeps Fall Season

The Rebel baseball team was a force to be contended with during the 1990 Fall season. The team swept through a series of Community College opponents without a single loss. In a span of just two weeks the team had competed against four teams from Mississippi and Alabama. In a round of play action that began on September 25 and ended on October 5, the Rebels coached by second-year front man Don Kessinger, ended with a 6-0 record. Throughout the rest of the Fall season the Rebels continued to play, holding practices to polish their skills in prepartation for the spring schedule.

Team optimistic about spring season

After beginning the season with a win against Nicholls State 8-2, the Ole Miss Rebel baseball team is forging into the new season with a renewed optimisim about the Rebel ball team. In his first year as head coach of the Rebels Don Kessinger begins the spring season with an advantage. He will have 17 returning players from last year's team.

These lettermen will combine with 17 others to make up a new ball team that will play 42 of the 60 scheduled games on three-year-old Swayze field. The team is excited about having so much time on the home field and hopes that this year they can gain more crowd support by proving to be an enthusiastic ball team.

The Rebels, who finished 23-29 last year and 10-16 in the S.E.C., eighth place, are being lead this year by some strong players who hope to improve that standing.

In the infield will be shortstop Keith Jones, second baseman Rob Boyd, third baseman Chris Snopek, first baseman Larry Cannon and utility man Jeff Kortz. Holding down the mound will be Grant Sullivan and Kenny Carlyle. Both juniors, Sullivan and Grant posted records of 6-6 and 5-5 during 1990. Outfield will be led by Nate Riddley, Kevin Kessinger and Kirk Purdom. Three players will share time behind the plate, Collier Simpson, Brian Silva and Chris Bell.

Although the Rebels will face tough S.E.C. contenders all season, they end the year by playing a weekend series against S.E.C. rival, Georgia, the defending NCAA National Champion.

Basketball

Beginning the season with the ominous prediction that the Ole Miss men's basketball team would finish ninth or tenth in the S.E.C., and playing without former Ole Miss front-man and now NBA player Gerald Glass, could have had anyone nervous. However, Head coach Ed Murphy remained optomistic and knew that some his finest players like Tim Jumper, Joe Harvell, Sean Murphy and Patrick Eddie, would move comfortably into the spotlight.

After a 13-17 overall and 8-10 finish in the S.E.C. last year, this year's team will have to work on its shooting and running its offense in order to finish in a decent position in this year's S.E.C. standing.

Early picks by basketball sports analysts predicted that other, less experienced players, such as freshmen Dondi Flemister, Juha Luhatanensi, Stephen Davis and Keith Peel, as well as sophomore James Bailey, would help the Rebels have a successful season.

After a hard year Rebs at bottom of SEC conference

It was not a good year for the Rebel basketball team. Overall the team was unable to come together as a force in the S.E.C.. Losing almost every home game played at Tad Smith, the Rebels rounded out the season 9-18 overall and 3-15 in S.E.C. play. The Rebels were on the rebound from what was a marginal season during 1990, and head coach Ed Murphey was hoping that the strong senior force with players such as Sean Murphy, Tim Jumper, David Midlick, John Matthews, Patrick Eddie and Greg Jones would be able to carry the Rebel team into another season.

In pre-conference action in late 1990, the Rebels came out strong against non-S.E.C. contenders. The team hoped this would be a prelude to a successful season, but it was not. The team bounded into confernece action in early January and did not pick up a win against any contender until it met Tennessee at Tad Smith on January 26. The Rebels won again at home during late February when they downed Vanderbilt 74-58.

Some memorable moments did take place this year during action in Tad Smith. During the February 13, game against the nationally-ranked Mississippi State Bulldogs the Rebels were able to lead the Dogs at half-time. They were however, unable to hold that lead and fell only slightly to the Dogs, finishing 77-84. A capacity crowd was also on hand to watch the Rebs take on another nationally-ranked team, LSU. The crowd, while watching the Rebs not play to par, did get a chance to see the man they call the number one collegiate player, "The Shack" O'Neal.

Nationally-ranked Lady Rebs pull out great season

The nationally-ranked Lady Rebs were able to come away from regular season play with an impressive compilation of victories. They managed to down tough contenders and end the season with a 20-8 overall, and 6-4 record in S.E.C. action. The Lady Rebs were particularly successful during action at home, where they were able to defeat S.E.C contenders such as Mississippi State, Kentucky and Florida. In his 13th year as Head Coach of the Lady Rebels Van Chancellor, was looking for a good season based on the number of returning players in his line-up. Headlining the Lady Rebels this year was senior guard Jackie Martin and junior transfer Kim Gilchrist, who joined Martin in the backcourt. Other returning seniors who added to the strength of the team included Antrice McGill, Teena Bender and LaTeasha Johnson. Chancellor coached these girls to help fill the gap created by last year's All-SEC center Kimsey O'Neal. Although the Rebels were unable to finish as successfully as last year when their record of 22-10, and 7-2 in S.E.C., led them to the second-place finish in the conference, they were able to garner the respect of having a fine ball team, and show promise of a team to watch for next year.

Tough schedule leads to fair finish

Overall the 1990 Lady Volleyball season was a sucessful one for head coach John Blair and his ten-member team. His team took to the road in late August with an opener against Washington State in Pullman, Washington. From there the team traveled all throughout the northeast and the South playing conference and non-conference matches against some very tough competitors. The team finished a season of play in late Novemeber, 4-3 on the home court at Tad Smith, 14-10 overall, and 4-6 in the conference.

Track pushes hard during indoor/outdoor season

The current Ole Miss track and field program is less than a decade old, having been restarted in 1979. Every year the teams have worked hard to build respect for the university program and to produce some world-class athletes. This year is no exception. During the Fall outdoor season the track and cross-country teams were able to place at many of the meets they attended. So far during the indoor season, track standouts such as All-Americans George Kersh Thomas Johnson, and Michael Cox have taken the spotlight. Kersh has already set numerous new records in the 800-meter run, and Johnson, who is ranked No. 3 in the S.E.C. set a world record during the 500-meter Indoor dash in Gainsville, Fla., early on during the season. The Lady Rebels have a few standouts of their own, including Betty Collins, who was ranked fifth in the S.E.C. in the 55-meter hurdles. Overall, the Ole Miss team under the direction of Coach Joe Walker, for the third year, is continuing to garner respect and prestige, while producing some top of the line athletes.

George Kersh brings world-class talent to Rebel team

George Kersh

Senior George Kersh, a middle distance runner from Pearl, MS, is said to be the most under-appreciated athlete at Ole Miss. He is destined to become a legend in the world of distance running, having set multiple records at Ole Miss and at various competitions throughout the world. Kersh, who finished fourth in the 1988 Olympic trials, is also expected to compete for a spot on the 1992 Olympic team. He is a very consistent runner and this year has led the Rebel during the indoor season in the 800-meter run, the 1000-meter run and the mile run. Kersh is also a team player and helps the Rebels dominate events such as the mile and two-mile relay and the 3200-meter run. Kersh is destined to become a world-class athlete and his absence will be missed on the Rebel team next season.

New complex expands UM tennis program

▲ 1 B.J. Mannix

Over the course of the last year the John N. Palmer/Mitchell Salloum Tennis center was completed. The new center, which added two courts, seating capacity for 500 fans, a team meeting room and new dressing rooms, is located on the existing Magnolia tennis courts. The center was designed by Eley and Associates of Jackson. The center will enable the UM tennis program to equate itself with other S.E.C. programs and the center itself was inspired by other tennis program centers. The center comes at a time when the quality of the tennis team is improving steadily each year. Ole Miss head coach Billy Chadwick said he thinks the center says to everyone that Ole Miss is serious about tennis. The money to fund this project was donated by John N. Palmer and Mitchell Salloum, both Ole Miss alumni. Additional funding came from the Ole Miss drive for athletics.

Nationally ranked team Swings into the New season

Both the men's and women's tennis teams are beginning the spring season with a great deal of confidence. Both teams had an eventful fall season and are nationally ranked. Each team is also led by strong and promising front-runners such as Nick Barone and Paloma Collantes.

Both teams are also looking forward to putting into play the things they learned from last spring's marginal season. Due to illness and injury both teams suffered during the season and the men finished 3-8 in S.E.C. play and 15-13 overall. The ladies finished 4-10 in S.E.C. and 16-7 overall.

Looking forward veteran coaches Billy Chadwick and Jerry Montgomery are hoping to gather the strengths of their young groups and have a productive spring season. For the men's team seniors Dan and Derek Brooks, Tommy Alfano, an All-America performer, Eric Schwing and Nick Barone should carry the men. For the ladies five out of the six top players from last year's team including five juniors and one sophomore will be returning. Last year the lady Rebel team saw doubles partners Alison Hill and Nina Topper advance to the 16th round of the 1990 NCAA doubles championships, before losing to the No. 3 team on the country.

Chadwick and Montgomery have expressed enthusiasim over the possibilites of their teams during the heavily loaded spring season. With a new playing ground and the ability to host more S.E.C. matches in Oxford, the tradition of tennis at Ole Miss is continuing to expand and the quality of the tennis players continues to rise with it.

Nick Barone

Nick Barone began the spring season ranked fourth in the country. It has been said of Nick that he has the quickest feet in collegiate tennis and this senior from Chicago, continues to dominate the world of tennis on that assumption. In the fall of 1990 Nick finished with a 12-2 record and won the Texas All-American Invitational, defeating two other nationally ranked competitiors. Nick came to Ole Miss two years ago after an exceptional career at North Greenville Community College in South Carolina. He is currently an All-SEC and an All-America candidate.

Paloma Collantes

Paloma Collantes has had an extensive tennis career already as she begins her first year with the Lady Rebels. She holds the number one position on the Lady Rebel team and during fall play she claimed the championship of the Southern Intercollegiates. Collantes is spotlighted by many as one of the top collegiate players in the nation. Before beginning her college career she won the Mississippi Open in 1990, won the 1989 junior championships of Spain, narrowly lost to Jennifer Capriati in the 1989 U.S. Open Juniors and participated in 1988 Junior Wimbledon. Originally from Lima, Peru, Collantes is a welcomed addition to the Lady Rebels.

Rugby

The Ole Miss Rugby club began its season with play in late Fall and will continue throughout the Spring. The team travels around the state and to nearby colleges and universities competeting with other university rugby teams. Although not officially recognized as a University sport, the Ole Miss rugby team hopes that through continued committment to their team and continued success with their season schedules it will soon be recognized and given the same status as other sports. The team practices three times a week and is open to any student who is willing to demonstrate an ability in the game. The team is a very close-knit group who is proud of the strides they have made in the sport so far this year.

The Ole Miss lacrosse club opened its season during the final days of January with a loss to Mississippi State. Both fledgling teams are playing this year with relatively new players. The UM team is practicing with a new group and feels confident as they head into their spring schedule. The lacrosse club is open to any student interested in learning how to play the sport and shows promise. The lacrosse club will be active throughout the spring season taking on other Southern university contenders.

Consistency the key to Rebel team

Rebel Head Coach Larry Slone will be looking to the two returning senior members of his golf team this year for leadership and ability. The two are Greg Heinecke of Tupelo, and Rob Darden of New Albany. These two along with four juniors will help lead the way to a successful golf season for the Ole Miss team. The team finished in sixth place in the S.E.C. in 1990 and is looking to the experience from this year's veteran team to pull them out of that position. The golf season for the men's team kicks off on February 7 and concludes with the S.E.C. tournament beginning May 13 at Old Waverly in Starkville.

The five-year-old lady Rebel golf team is once again aiming to break old records and to continue to forge ahead in improving its creditability in the S.E.C. In 1990, two younger players, Sarah Britt and Chris Darci led the team and head coach Larry Wagster expects those two, along with strong senior players Keilly Frassand and Amy Napolitano to be a force for the Rebel team.

Cheerleaders Help Motivate Crowd

This year the job of the cheerleaders was made a little bit easier by the great Rebel football team they were helping to cheer on. With record crowds attending the games and then a nationally televised game, the cheerleaders were often having to follow the cheers being led from the stands.

Honors

A Legacy of Achievement

To be honored by your peers and your mentors must be a feeling that is hard to put into words. After long hours of studying and many years of learning and acheiving a great number of students are honored each year by being named to some of the highest honoraries at Ole Miss. Only the top ten to fifteen percent of each class is included in such honors and only eight students each year are elected to the University's Hall of Fame. Dedication and hard work are two ingredients needed to acheive such a high honor. Long hours of service not only to the Univerisity but to many respective organizations as well are usually included in the selection process. The students who prove themselves during their years at Ole Miss are not only remembered as campus leaders but they will also be remembered as the leaders of tommorrow.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is an honor conferred annually upon outstanding student leaders. Over the past 56 years, more than 1400 senior colleges have adopted this program as a part of their annual campus honors.
Selections are made by campus nominating committees and are based on decidedly above average academic standing, community service, leadership ability, and potential for continued success. Those selected for Who's Who are featured in the 57th annual edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.
This coveted award exists as one of the most highly regarded and long-standing honor programs in the nation. For the students — the outstanding campus leaders of this year — national recognition by the Who's Who program marks a pinnacle of scholastic achievement.
The Who's Who program recognizes that college students are the reservoir from which our nation draws its leadership strength. For through their contributions and service to community and school, the Who's Who recipients are the young adults who enhance the positive image of American youth.

Mortar Board

Established originally as a national women's honor society, Mortar Board is one of the highest senior honor groups for both men and women. Tassels, the local chapter, has been active on the Ole Miss campus since its founding in 1939. With a 35 member limit, Mortar Board selects members based on leadership, scholarship of at least a 3.0 GPA, and service. Mortar Board is an organization that challenges the individual to provide thoughtful leadership to the campus and community, to create an environment of effective communication and to move toward the improvement of the status of men and women.

Administration

A Legacy of Instruction

It is often those who help us find our direction in life, whom we will continue to praise for the rest of our years. This is the case with the hundreds of faculty members that make up the administration at Ole Miss. As instructors they help guide students through their years at the University, counseling students about their majors and talking to them about the rigors of classes and the demands of college life. Many students will be able to look back at a certain class they enjoyed more than the others and allow an instructor to take all the credit for that.

Governor Ray Mabus

The year 1990, was a very important year for Mississippi Governor Ray Mabus. For the first time this 41 year-old became a father. He and his wife Julie became parents with the birth of Elisabeth Hamilton Mabus on July 15. The year also brought disappointments as Mabus watched his major education reform plan, Better Education for Success Tomorrow (BEST), shot down. Despite the failed attempts to revive the BEST bill, Mabus will still emerge and be remembered for years to come as one Governor who really fought for the strides of education. Fortune Magazine named Mabus as one of this year's Top Ten Education Governors in America.

After three years in office, Mabus has been instrumental in the state government reorganization plan, which he begun in 1989. This plan seeks to make the county and state government processes run more efficiently. He has also signed into law the largest single expansion of health care and Medicaid funding in Mississippi history. During his first year in office, Mabus took on and accomplished the challenge of raising teachers' salaries to the Southeast average.

A 1969, graduate of Ole Miss and a native of Ackerman, Mabus was a Woodrow Wilson fellow at John Hopkins University, receiving a Masters in government. In 1976, Mabus graduated Magna Cum Laude from Harvard Law School.

Board of Trustees

The Mississippi Board of Trustees of the Institutions of Higher Learning was established to remove political interference from the administration of statewide higher education. The members are appointed by the Governor to twelve-year staggered terms, thus preventing any one group of political appointees from gaining control of the board.

Mississippi has eight state universities — Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Southern, Jackson State, Alcorn, Mississippi Valley, Delta State and Mississppi University for Women. With increases in both the student and the faculty enrollment, the Board of Trustees cannot do everything for everyone in higher learning. Therefore, the Board has established leadership roles for areas in which the state institutions concentrate.

Ole Miss currently has leadership roles in social sciences, journalism, law, foreign languages, pharmacy, community and regional planning, math, art, public affairs, letters, and physical science.

The function of the Board is to make decisions that will improve the institutions of higher learning. Despite the budgetary problems of the state, the Board has proved vital to the future of the state's higher education and the future of the state of Mississippi.

Chancellor R. Gerald Turner

Since Chancellor Turner took over the helm at Ole Miss in 1984, he has continued with his vision of promoting academic excellence, not only at Ole Miss but at all institutions of higher learning in the state. As the 22nd Chancellor of the University of Mississippi, Turner has traveled throughout the state promoting his message and sharing the value of strong universities with legislators, business executives, civic club members and alumni support. He and his wife, Gail have traveled not only extensively throughout he state, but throughout the nation as well, promoting Ole Miss and Mississippi.

In the last six years, under the leadership of Dr. Turner, Ole Miss's endowment has grown from $8 million to $38 million. Major projects for the campus have included the National Center for Physical Acoustics and the federally funded Natural Products Center, which was recently funded and will be exclusive to Ole Miss.

Dr. Turner has also been instrumental in helping to provide the most up-to-date technological advance for use by the students. In 1990, he oversaw the expansion of computer technology in the Ole Miss library and is working with other officials to bring telephone registration to campus. Turner and others are also watching as a new and expansive student health center takes shape.

Through his committment to the University, Turner is helping to lead Ole Miss into a coveted spot in the next century.

Teacher of the Year

Dr. David G. Sansing, a 20-year teaching veteran in the Department of History, was named the University of Mississippi's Outstanding Teacher of the Year during Honors Day ceremonies held in April of 1990.

Sansing earned a $2,000 check and a plaque for being named the Outstanding Teacher. His name will be included on a separate plaque, which hangs in the Chancellor's office, listing the award's previous recipients.

He joined the Ole Miss faculty in 1970, as an assistant professor of history and advanced through the ranks to become a professor of history, the position he now holds.

Dr. Robert Haws, history chairman, describes him as "one of the most effective teachers we have. He has the personality to develop a strong rapport with students. This talent greatly enhances the learning ability of his students."

The Greenville native earned a bachelor's and master's degree from Mississippi College. In 1969, he received his doctoral degree in history from the University of Southern Mississippi. He has published extensively and presented numerous papers and lectures.

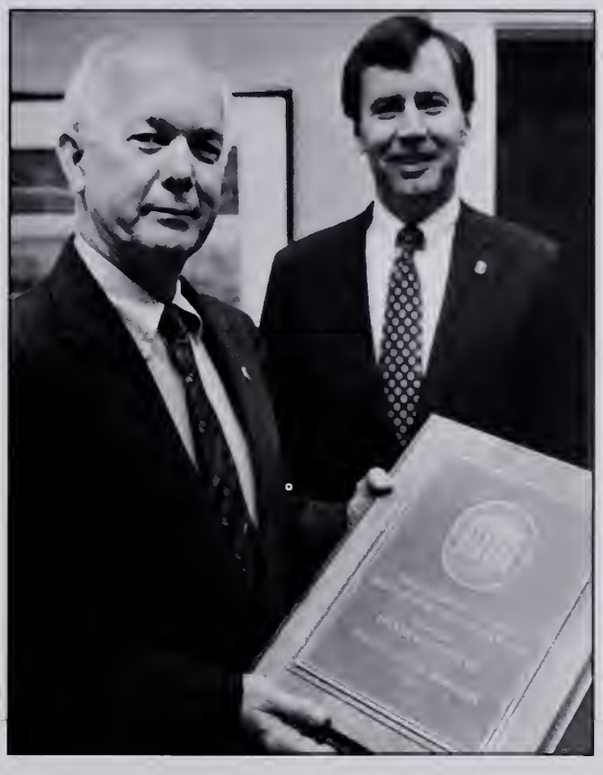

His textbook, "Mississippi History Through Four Centuries," co-authored with Ray Skates, is used as the Mississippi history textbook in nearly 90 percent of the state's public schools.

He is the author of a number of other books examining the history of Mississippi, including, "Making Haste Slowly: The Troubled History of Higher Education in Mississippi," published in November of 1989, by the University Press of Mississippi. He is currently at work on a companion volume, "Readin, 'Riting, Race and 'Rithmetic: A History of Public Schooling in Mississippi."

Sansing and his family have been devout Ole Miss supporters since coming to the University.

"One of my proudest accomplishments since coming here is having all three of my children graduate from Ole Miss," he said. "That really means a lot to me."

Sansing is a past president of the Mississippi Historical Society and has also served as book review editor of the Journal of Mississippi History.

Accountancy

The Ole Miss School of Accountancy has a unique organizational arrangement among accountancy programs in the U.S.. While most accountancy programs are departments within a business school, at Ole Miss the School is a completely separate unit and is celebrating the twelfth anniversary of its establishment. A five-year program, the School awards the Bachelor of Accountancy after four years and the Masters after the fifth year. A doctoral program is also available.
The School is fully accredited at both the Bachelors and Masters levels. Students completing the program are well prepared for prestigious jobs with CPA firms and in industry, government and education, and for the professional certification examinations. Ole Miss accountancy students are highly respected for their leadership in academic honoraries, student government and organizations, and other areas of campus life.

THE DOMMES

Greeks

A Legacy of Revelry

For many decades the fraternal organizations at Ole Miss have been part of the heritage associated with the Univerisity. Ole Miss is known for these groups whose combined memberships number into the thousands. It is a fair assessment to say of Ole Miss that you don't have to look very far to meet someone who is Greek; but the capacity in which you meet that person may now surprise you. Greeks have long been known to support a good time, and they still do that, but they will also support a good cause, each other and the University. To find someone who is Greek is not difficult; to understand what that person and their organization is all about takes looking way beyond the letters and the name.

Greeks take strides to improve age-old system

During 1990, the Greek system at Ole Miss underwent another round of discussions concerning the abuses of rush rules and the involvement of alcohol at Greek functions. IFC president Jim Abbott and Panhellenic president Shelly McNeer set up an open forum for presidents and fraternity and sorority members to speak out all throughout the year. Coming before these two groups during 1990 were concerns over the involvement of alcohol at mixers, rush parties and summer rush week-ends. Abbott and other IFC officers, along with the entire IFC group, voted to outlaw fraternities from spending chapter money for alcohol during fall and spring rush weekends. Previously groups had been providing "rushee beer" to prospective members during rush functions. Abbott said cutting back on the use of alcohol during rush functions was a main goal of IFC during his term.

"We wanted the groups to cut down on having alcohol available, not only at rush parties but also at campus mixers," Abbott said. "We received a great deal of cooperation from all the groups."

In addition to curbing alcohol abuses, IFC and Panhellenic worked together as discussions concerning second semester rush were held. Currently the big rush period at Ole Miss is in the fall, with more than 1,000 young men and women participating. Spring rush is held during the second term, with only about 20 people participating. Abbott said over the years it has been evaluated as to whether or not moving the big rush period to second semester would better serve prospective Greek pledges.

"Moving rush to the spring has been considered for a long time," Abbott said. "It would give the people participating a better chance to get to know the Greek groups. After discussion we all felt that for our situation it is best to leave rush as it is now."

Abbott did say however, that the Chancellor, along with other standing committees, made the decision to have rushees come to school a week before rush begins, starting with this year's rush period. He said that requiring the rushees to come to school a few days prior to rush would allow them to be better prepared for actual rush.

"This way they won't be just jumping right into rush immediately when they get to school," Abbott said.

Overall, Abbott said he was pleased with the strides that IFC and Panhellenic made this year to improve the quality of the Greek system.

"We wanted to work hard to keep relations between the Greeks on a positive note and we were really able to do that this year," he said.

The 1990 Greek Week, hosted by the Inter-Fraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council, was held March 26-30 and concluded with Greek Games on Friday. The games, traditionally held at Village Field, had to be moved inside Turner Complex due to rain. Fraternities and sororities competed in games like tug-of-war, bat spin, and a president's race, which were sponsored by Budweiser. Activities during the week included bed races and scotter races on Fraternity Row, as well as a leadership banquet addressed by Clyda Rent, president of Mississippi University for Women.

Inter-Fraternity Council President Jim Abbott said the purpose of Greek Week is "to raise money and to instill a little friendly competition between greeks- all for a worthy cause." $10,500 was raised by students and donated to the Lafayette County Cancer Society in memory of the late Ole Miss Chancellor Porter L. Fortune Jr., a former chair of the local cancer society. by Amy Solomon

At the beginning of the week, a derby was hidden on campus and clues were left at the Sigma Chi house each morning. This year the AOPi's found the derby which was hidden behind the alunmi house. Other activities during the week included a fund-raiser at Oxford Alley, the derby day dash, and bands at the Sigma Chi house.

Derby Day Chairman Jay Weir felt the event was very sucessful. "The level of enthusiasm of the sororities and Sigma Chi were the best I've seen im my four years at Ole Miss. The months spent planning before Derby Day involved a lot of people. We got a lot of fresh ideas from the girls. It really was a joint venture - no one person was calling all the shots." by Amy Solomon

This year marked the fifth year for the Alpha Psi chapter of the Delta Gamma sorority to host Anchor Splash. Located at the university's outdoor pool, 14 fraternities competed for various events such as the swimming relay, synchronized swimming, and Mr. Anchor Splash. Each fraternity is coached by members of the Delta Gamma sorority. Jennifer Pace, the Alpha Tau Omega coach for the events, said, "I thought the turnout this year was stronger than ever. I think that Anchor Splash is a positive way for sororities and fraternities to have fun, yet at the same time be an attribute to a good cause." The cause, or philanthropy of Anchor Splash is to benefit the Sight Conservation and Aid to the Blind, in which Delta Gamma raised over $3000.00. Elizabeth Jones, head of the event said "This year went really well and even more money was raised than last year. However, sometimes things got out of our hands. Thus, we will probably be making some changes for the better." Last year two fraternities were disqualified because they showed a little too much of themselves. None the less, history repeated itself during this year's festivities.

It was ninety degrees in Oxford, yet numbers of freshmen, armed in their floral dresses and duck heads, nervously awaited to meet those who may be their newly found brothers or sisters. Inside, active members read out the next rush group to listen for any familiar names. With 671 sweaty palmed rushees, rush on the Ole Miss campus had begun.

Rush, although hectic, provided a way for students to become oriented with the various Greek organizations. It also gave new students a chance to make friends and to get a taste of being in the social spotlight of college life.

Seniors Lacey Scott and Elizabeth Taylor met in their rush group their freshman year; and even though both pledged different sororities, they have still grown to be special friends.

"Being in a sorority doesn't mean you can't have friends in different organizations," Scott said. "It just means that you have a place you can always go, where people accept you for who you are. Being greek has given me many opportunities to meet all kinds of different people."

Here at Ole Miss, rush is a time where the shy have no room. Rushees must be prepared for the ultimate social inquisition. At each house the same familiar lines will be asked by every active. "What's your major?", "Where are you from?", and the everpopular "So what made you decide to come to Ole Miss?". Rushees get the hang of things about the third day, which is the night of skit parties for sororities and re-date for fraternities. At skit parties, actives in the sororities plan a song and dance routine. For instance, this year members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority performed a take-off of the hit broadway musical "Cats", in which they substituted the musical dialogue with dialogue about their sorority.

After each night rushees go back to their dorm rooms, debating who they liked best, and who they pray to get asked back to. However, to greek actives, the night is still young. Each night actives must be present to go through each party roll list, sometimes debating hours on end on who to keep and who to cut.

Finally, the time comes when each rushee must make the final choice of which fraternity/sorority to pledge. To some it is a tough decision and to others they have no doubts about it. In the end, bid day comes and each rushee makes the choice which is best for them. by Michael Huffines

Second annual olympics a huge success

For the second year, Phi Mu sorority sponsored pledge olympics early in the fall as a chance for all the sorority pledges to get together in a little friendly competition. The pledges competed in activites such as the pie toss, stuff your pledge class in a box and the sack race. Kappa Delta pledge Jessica Yoste said she thought the event was a great way to get everyone together and a good way for pledges to get to know one another after rush is over. This year's overall winner was Chi Omega, who proved that stuffing 60 girls into a box wasn't such a difficult feat.

Alpha Delta Pi ΑΔΠ Alpha Delta Pi

Alpha Delta Pi, the first secret society for women, now recognized as the nation's oldest sorority, was founded in 1851, at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia. Our Delta Sigma chapter was established at Ole Miss in the spring of 1960. Since that time, each group of pledges has upheld the traditions behind the lion, the diamond, and the colors of azure blue and white. These girls have combined the qualities of uniqueness and diversity, which are so much a part of ΑΔΠ. ΑΔΠ represents many things. It is brand-new friends and life long sisters. It is striving for achievement and campus leadership. its Rebelette practice and Rebel recrutiers. Its fraternity little sisters and Ole Miss ambassadors. Its the oozeball tournament for our philantrophy the Ronald McDonald houses. Its Derby Day and Homecoming floats. But most of all, its first and finest, Alpha Delta Pi.

Alpha Omicron Pi

Alpha Omicron Pi encourages both unity and individuality. We are a very diverse group from diverse backgrounds, bound together by the traditions and values of Alpha Omicron Pi. These beliefs are reflected in our symbols, the sheaf of wheat and the jacqueminot rose. The spirit of friendship and love found here is reflected by our mascot, the panda bear. Our pledges promise to be true not only to our founders, but to themselves.

Fall begins with Bid Day and finishes with their annual Christmas Party. In between are Big Sis/Lil Sis, Football Game Brunches, and Arrange-A-Date, and parties and cookouts with fraternities. The highlight of Fall is the Winter Formal. Spring brings fun and sun. There are Crush Parties, Derby Day, Spring Formal, Grab-A-Date, Greek Games, and Red and Blue Weekend to keep us busy. For parents, there is the annual Parents' Weekend with a crawfish boil and a softball game.

The Kappas are always looking for ways to help out those who are needy. Last spring we helped raise money for the Mississippi Kidney Foundation, while participating in Derby Day. We also raised money for Special Olympics. This fall we sponsored Rock-a-Thon with the Kappa Sigmas to benefit the Oxford Humane Society. "We collected pledges and donations from local businesses and then rocked from from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the rocking chairs in front of the house," said Philantrophy chairman Andrea Wall. The Kappas also sponsored a benefit for Miles Johnson, and many blood-drives with other organizations. This Christmas season, the Kappas went to the orphanage and gave a Christmas party with all the decorations and toys for 23 children. Throughout the year Kappas are always looking for ways to help those in need. We committ ourselves to raising money or spreading happiness. Through the projects we participate in our aim is to make life a little easier for those in need.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., was begun at Howard University in Washington, D.C., on January 9, 1914. At Ole Miss Eta chapter is well known in the community because of the continued service given to such things as the adoption of the Burns Day Care Center, and annual visits to see children at the North Mississippi Retardation Center. The fraternity's move onto fraternity row and their continued display of Brotherhood,Scholarship and Service has labled them as a stepping stone for other historically black greek organizations and a major advocate to end racism. By doing this, Phi Beta Sigma men prove that your dreams can become a reality. Sigma's share a two-fold goal: to promote brotherhood and community service and to pursue scholastic excellence. All of this combines and enables them to live up to their claim that they really are Bigger, Better and Bolder.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon ΣAE Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded in 1856, at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa. The Mississippi Gamma chapter at Ole Miss was the seventeenth established chapter, dating back to 1866. Since its founding, Mississippi Gamma has produced many great leaders, the most famous being L.Q.C. Lamar who was a justice on the U.S. Supreme Court. In more recent years, the chapter has had members as both ASB president and Colonel Rebel and has also been involved in campus academic honoraries, university athletics and intramurals.

SAE also involves itself in a variety of community service projects including "Adopt-a-Highway" program on Highway 6. An annual bar-b-que contest which benefits the local chapter of Habitat for Humanity, held in the spring, the annual fundraiser with Delta Delta Delta, all of the proceeds going to fight Muscular Dystrophy, and a bowl-a-thon with Kappa Delta are just a few.

Sigma Chi ΣX Sigma Chi

Eta chapter of Sigma Chi received its charter in 1857, only twelve years after the founding of Ole Miss, becoming the first chapter here and the fourth chapter nationwide. Known as the Standard Bearer of the South, Eta is composed of men of different temperaments, talents and convictions.

Eta chapter asserts itself every year in the form of leadership positions. For the second year in a row, Eta chapter is proud to have the president of the Associated Student Body. This year Wade Cox is serving in this position. Sigma Chi is also very proud this year to have had brother Reid Cotton elected as Colonel Reb. Sigma Chi's also boast memberships into some of the Univesities highest honors this year including ODK, Who's Who, Order of Omega, Phi Kappa Phi and Hall of Fame.

Some of the highlights of Eta chapter take place on the social scene as Eta chapter hosts one of the greatest parties in the spring. The entire campus is involved in Derby Day, which is held in April and which not provides a good time but also raises money for different causes.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded in Richmond, Virginia in 1901, at what is now the University of Richmond. It was expanded to a national fraternity in October of 1902, and has grown to the largest fraternity in the United States. Activites for the fall semester begin with Bid Day and are accompanied by football parties and mixers with many of the sororities. Homecoming is a big event for Sig Eps and their parents and other alumni. Our annual Christmas party is the perfect way to top off a very productive and active first semester. During second semester, not only does our great pledge class become initiates, they get to partake in one of our best week-ends, our annual theme party. Sig Ep offers something for everyone, by having a variety of members from all over the United States. Sig Ep continues to grow each year in membership and brotherhood.

Chi Psi ΧΨ Chi Psi

Chi Psi made its entrance on the Ole Miss campus in 1858, making it one of the only two existing fraternities founded here before the war between the states. The ideals of the fraternity bred such men as former Ole Miss chancellor Robert Burwell Fulton, the man for whom Fulton Chapel is named. Current years have seen Chi Psi members serve as Student Body president, Programming Board director and the Ole Miss Hall of Fame.

It is this tradition of excellence that led Chi Psi to recognize the negative direction the fraternities were heading. The sporadic incidents of hazing, alcohol and drug abuse, vandalism and other factors was recognized and in 1990 Chi Psi took steps to deal with this problem. Chi Psi completely reorganized, and a new pledge program was developed through undergraduate and alumni intervention. A new leadership development program was also founded, with help from Chi Psi nationals. It is designed to help every member improve academically and socially.

While looking for cute pictures to put into the yearbook, a couple of people stumbled upon these and then the idea snowballed. Others began to reach deep into picture books for old pictures. Most all of these pictures are of seniors and we tried to cover a wide variety of people but it was hard because this was one of those "last minute" ideas. We hope no one will take it personal. We got a lot of the pictures from the extra bin at Candid Campus, so it is likely that people have seen these before. We did have a little help from some special helpers, who knew you wouldn't mind seeing a reminder of what you looked like when you first came to college. All we can say is "thank goodness the times have changed. . ."

Snapshots

The following four pages contain extra pictures that were submitted by the Greeks for use on their pages. They offer, if just a little bit, an extra glimpse into the world of the Greeks and the way in which Greeks interact with one another at campus functions.

Organizations

A Legacy of Involvement

Aside from grades an accurate way to measure a student's college success is to look into the kinds of clubs and organizations they elected to join. At Ole Miss these groups serve to do more than just be resume fillers. The majority of the organizations serve to give real-life experience dealing with legislative and career-related matters. Many organizations are integral forces on the campus and their effectivness and power can be felt each year as policies and procedures are amended and enacted. From helping to change the way a grade point average is calculated to amending the election procedure, organizations allow students to become involved in all aspects of campus affairs.

Yearbook Staff

The Ole Miss annual is in its ninty-seventh year of production. It is a student produced publication that comes out once a year in the spring. The editor of the annual is an elected Associated Student Body office, and is chosen in the general spring election. The rest of the staff is comprised of students who submit applications to the editor and the senior staff. The senior staff is made up of those who serve in an editorial postion. This includes the editor, the assistant editor, the business manager, the photo editor, and a person who has served on the staff previously.

About forty students are involved in the nine-month production process of the annual. Included in these students are section editors and thier assistants who help pull together and organize the individual sections of the annual.

Most all of the photography is done by student photgraphers, who are paid upon completion of the book, but who spend a great deal of time working on the book prior to completion.

The book is funded through money garnered from Student Activity fees, and the book is given to students who have paid both semesters activity fee. The cost to anyone else desiring a copy is twenty dollars.

The annual strives to present an accurate potrayal of life as we know it at Ole Miss.

Daily Mississippian

The Daily Mississippian is the only daily student-run newspaper in Mississippi. It publishes a circulation of 10,000 Monday through Friday and is primarily funded through advertising. The newspaper has more than 50 staff members who not only report the news, but learn to edit copy, write headlines, design pages, and develop and print photos. The Daily Mississippian is the only college newspaper which has full membership in the Mississippi Press Association. Through MPA, The Mississippian competes annually with professional newspapers statewide.

The Mississippian has served Ole Miss since 1911, and has been daily since 1962. Printed in the basement of Farley Hall, the paper is usually available to students by 8 a.m. each day in most campus buildings and in many local businesses. It not only focuses on campus events and news, but also features state, national and world news.

This last year has been a very turbulent one for The Mississippian. In late spring, the campus was involved in a protest spear-headed by members of the DM staff who opposed the election of an editor by popular vote. After many weeks and much discussion, it was decided by a committee of students, faculty and professional newspaper people that an editor that was selected by a qualified committee would better serve the needs of the paper and the student body. Lee Eric Smith a senior journalism major from Holly Springs made DM history by being the first editor who holds the postion through the selection process.

Lee Eric however did not take over the helm right off. Working as an intern for a Virginia paper, he left the paper in the hands of interim editor Amy Stewart. Lee Eric resumed his duties in the Fall and has allowed a great deal of controversial issues to surface in print amongst the guest columns and letters to the editor. The Daily Mississippian has served as a vechile for change this year and has allowed a few more young minds to be opened.

SEA

In leiu of using a picture of their organization, Student for Environmental Awareness is using a picture of the Oxford Landfill. The Oxford Landfill is just one of the many places in the South that causes hazards to the community and to the land. During the past several months the landfill and the city of Oxford have come under attack for letting outside companies bring in wastes from neighboring states. SEA is just one of the groups keeping an eye on the landfill and many of the other landfills that are causing environmental problems throughout our state. SEA hopes to make more people aware of the importance of being environmentally aware and knowledgeable about the small things that every person can do that will make this world a better place to live. Any student at Ole Miss can become a member of SEA, and in having such a broad membership, SEA hopes to bring about a great consciousness concerning environmental issues.

Some of the more noteable annual events planned by SPB are the Parade of Beauties Pageant and the various musical acts the Board brings to campus each year. This year during the fall semester the campus was treated to a rare and very special visit by rock-legend Bob Dylan.

The Rebel Recruiters help the coaching staff with the recruitment of prospective student/athletes. They serve as hostesses during recruiting events, welcone prospects who are visiting campus, and phone or write prospects that the coaches assign to them.
Each girl represents Ole Miss and shows her friendly attitude toward people by her willingness to help them. The recruiters are always present to show support for the football team, and always do their best to build school spirit.

University Marching Band

The Ole Miss Rebel Band, "The Pride of the South," consistently maintains a performance standard of excellence while providing each individual band member an enviornment of social activities and lasting friendships. The Rebel band offers an exciting opportunity for qualified instrumentalists and color guard specialists. The marching style for its approximate 200 membership is corps-oriented combined with a precision influence featuring a dynamic woodwind and brass line, progressive multi-percussion section, and accomplished flag unit. The Rebel band also has within it four featured twirlers and the 24-member Rebelette dance team, which perform at UM football games, basketball games and other band-related activites.

In addition to football games, basketball games, and other UM athletic events, the Rebel band also performs at occasional pep rallies, parades and concerts. In 1958, the band was invited to perform at the World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium. The band has performed numerous times on regional and national television in conjunction with National Football League games, National Collegiate Athletic Association Southeastern Conference football games and bowl games. The Rebel band has also officially represented the University of Mississippi at Gubernatorial and Presidential inaugurations.

One of the three concert bands within the University band program is the Wind ensemble. In March of 1990, the Wind Ensemble traveled to Europe to perform in London and Oxford, England, as a "sister-city" cultural exchange and in Dublin, Ireland for the national holiday festivities of St. Patrick's Day. While in Ireland, the ensemble was the featured attraction at the pretigious Galway International Music Festival and also performed in Limerick's St. Mary's Cathedral.

College Republicans

College Republicans had an active year throughout 1990-91. The three-hundred member club began the year with its annual membership drive during fall registration. After that, club members participated in various activities. Before the 1990 elections, the club conducted an absentee ballot drive for Ole Miss students, and several members worked on local issues and campaigns. College Republicans attend functions around the state as well. Oliver North held an anti-tax rally in October, and the annual convention was held in April. In the Spring, the Ole Miss Club also began working on the 1991 State elections. Several blitzes against Democtaric Governor Ray Mabus and in favor of Republican candidates were held.

Classes

A Legacy of Comradarie

Thousands of new students enroll in the University each year, constituting a new "class" of students. Much like high school this class sticks together as they mature and spend their years here at Ole Miss. Getting to know students of your same age group, allows one to see that the experience of coming to college is a new one for everyone and that fears and doubts are not unfounded. As close as relationships get between students in the same age bracket, competition still exists. Students in the same age groups often find themselves in direct competition with others for things such as honoraries, test scores, interviews and jobs. However, these same students find things much more personal such as study partners, morale boosters and close friends.

Pete/Cold Beer

For the past several decades "Pete's" has been the one stop shop for cold beer near Oxford. Since the 1960's Lafayette county has been restricted from selling cold beer within the county limits, which encompass the city of Oxford. Located on Highway 6 just short of the Sardis turn-off Pete's is a frequented stopping place for students on their way out to make a day at Sardis. So if you think you're up to "Pete's challenge," stop by to see Pete, but he may just tell you to "Hush Yo Mouth."

Parking Tickets

"But I just ran in to get a schedule book," or "All I have to do is check the mail and my box is right in front," are just two of the most popular excuses given to UPD officers who lurk behind tree, column, or car and await a yet unticketed windsheild to pull into view. Giving excuses, pleading your case, and accumulating a nice-sized Bursar bill are just three of the things that go along with having a car on campus.

The Kroger Stop

Kroger is the place to be anytime day or night. There are girls on the campus for sure who check out their appearance before going to Kroger. Favorite activities at Kroger include cashing checks, stealing candy out of the bins in the back, checking out the beer specials and feeling the fruit while anxiously scanning the store looking for a date. Or it is just a great time-killer during exams, when you can bet the store will be full of people you want to see.

The Car Dilemma

Do you remember those days in high school, when you were just so sure that if your parents didn't buy you a BMW to take to Ole Miss, you would be THE social outcast. (You heard about the BMW club) After all in your young mind EVERY-ONE at Ole Miss drove a BMW or better. The fact is all your worrying was in vain. Less than 75 percent of all students have a car, and less than 15 percent have Beemers. Even if you had gotten that new Candy apple red beemer there wouldn't have been a damn place to park it within 20 miles of where you were trying to go.

Flag Controversy

During the past ten years controversy over the now "unofficial" flag of Ole Miss, has continued to grow. As the administration continues it efforts to downplay the flag as a symbol of our school, the majority of the students continue to wave the flag. This year especially it seemed the flag was a dominant presence at all the football games. Whatever your feelings about the flag, the winds of controversy continue to keep the Rebel red-white and blue waving on.

Taking Road Trips

It seems that everytime Friday rolls around the campus clears out, and all of a sudden there are actually empty parking spaces. Ole Miss has been described as a "suitcase" college, but it is interesting to find out that the majority of the students who are leaving town are not going home. In the Fall since many "home" games are in Jackson, frequent road trips are taken to watch the Rebs play. In the spring many students estimate that in a month they average two weekends out of town and two weekends at school. Many students attribute the trips to the increase of concert tours in the spring, the desire to get to the beach, and the fact that Memphis and other major cities are just a few hours drive away, allowing them to pack up on a whim and go.

Late Nights

As everyone knows, Oxford bars shut down earlier than any other bars this side of the Mississippi. However, the early bar hours (midnight during the week, 1 a.m. on the weekends) don't deter students eager to socialize late into the night. This makes the late-late night scene all the more alive, as students take to apartments, to the Chevron for late-night chicken and to the streets, in search of a place to continue carousing. Just because the bar-keep says it is time to go home doesn't mean the party has to end in Oxford.

Having It All

Senior Todd Sandroni is just one of the many examples at Ole Miss you will find of someone who embodies the meaning of "well-rounded". This year Todd was honored by being named the 1990 Toyota/CBS Leader of the Year. This free safety from Shaw, Mississippi, has shown that he can acheive both on the football field and in the classroom. Shown here, left, receiving a plaque from Coach Brewer, Todd was also honored on December 12 at the Plaza Hotel in New York City. Overcoming a serious knee injury this year, Todd was able to regain his spirits and he played in all 11 games, including special team action. Todd is just one example of the many people who leave Ole Miss with more than just an education, because they have put so much more into it.

Breaking all the Rules

Ole Miss adopted a no-smoking policy in the majority of its buildings and classrooms over the course of this last year. Students all over campus now find themselves in the position of having to take it outside when they want to light up. Of course the red signs posted everywhere and the cigarettes with a slash through them, don't always mean that everyone is going to abide by the rules. As usual students don't feel the need to conform to university policy and it is not uncommon to find a hallway filled with smoke.

Editors Closing

When I first took over as Editor last year it was an overwhelming feeling and I really didn't know what to expect. A few weeks after I was elected Mr. Denley asked me to speak at the journalism reunion about the annual. I hadn't prepared anything so I just told the audience what I thought this year was going to be like. I told them I expected this year to be alot like having a baby — nine months of pain and agony — lots of uncertainty — and no clue how it is going to come out until it gets here. It turned out that the summation I gave that day ended up being so true, and as I write this now, I still have months to wait to see what my final result will be.

I know it has been customary for the Editor to put a picture of themselves on the closing page, but my feeling was that there had been so many more people who contributed to the annual that I didn't belong here all alone. I tried to get the girls in the basement all together, but we never slowed down long enough in between my nights at Farley to take one. I pictured my parents and Jennifer Revels, my business manager. They know all too well what this year has meant for me.

First of all I would like to thank my parents. They didn't really know what to say when I called home with the crazy idea of running for Editor. All my dad could say was that he knew I could do it. When I called home a few weeks ago to say that I was considering running again, well, my dad said are you sure you can do it? Thanks for all your support and for listening to me complain and complain and complain.

Next, I want to thank the two people who really stood by me throughout the entire production of this book. Jennifer and John, I can never tell you how much you both mean to me. Every part of this book came about because you two urged me on when times got rough. Besides myself, I think you two are the only ones who have even a clue what the book will look like. You have both been with me from day one and helped this book take shape. Your individual efforts as business manager and as section editor will be appreciated always. I love you both.

To the girls downstairs at the Tri-Delt house. We always thought it would have been fun to have had apartments, only now do we know that the basement was the best place we could have lived. Mary Linda, Laurie, Carrie, Leigh, Lacey, Susan, Portia, Hyde, Jen, Wesley, TJ, Katie and Kelly, yall have given me the four best years of my life. None of this would have been possible without your love and support.

To my photographers, BJ, Pete and Alan, thanks a million. For all my last minute photo requests, I apologize. Yall have to be the smallest photo staff of any yearbook this size, but you did a fine job and I will always appreciate it.

Many thanks to Margaret Barnhart, Deanne Mosley, Michael Huffines, Amy Shakespeare and Theresa Champion. As section editors, each of you just about single-handidly put out your sections. I'm sorry the new computer system made it difficult for you to really utilize your staffs, but the jobs each of you did was incredible. I hope you'll stick it out with me for one more year.

Extra special thanks to Traci Mitchell, Sherri and Mr. Denley who on a daily basis listened to me complain and gave me some comic relief. Thanks also to Greg Williams, our Taylor rep., who was with me all the way in convincing Mr. Denley to let me have such an expensive cover. I really enjoyed working with you.

Ollie Brock, my savior, thanks for the pics and for always making me laugh. Thanks to Walt Mixon and the Oxford Photo staff. I would also like to thank Kim Jergens of Professional Images. In addition to solving the classes crisis, you gave me much needed support along the way, it was very much appreciated.

I would like to thank David R., David S., and David T., at the Oxford Eagle. You guys (and Bruce Newman of course) were wonderful to me. Thanks for everything.

I hope I haven't left anyone out, it has been such a crazy year that often I forget things. I appreciate everyone who helped out. From the Greeks who turned their pictures in on time, (minus the two or three that I had to call and call and call) to Wade and the ASB office for identifying photos five and six times. Thanks for everyone who was patient and put up with rescheduling and mistakes.

I have to say that about ten people put this annual out. If you look really close on some of the pages I'm sure there is still some of their blood, sweat and tears. I think I accomplished many of the things I set out to do. If you do find mistakes or if there is something you really just don't like, please keep in mind that this annual was a new experience for all of us and we gave it our best shot. Some of the problems we encountered this year we hope to correct.

I would appreciate constructive (key word) criticism of the annual. Afterall, it is supposed to be a represenatation of your year, and your ideas are appreciated.

I have to say in conclusion that I have mixed feelings as I an FINALLY finished with the 1991 book, and begin to look at 1992. I will miss my basement support group, as they are heading into the real world to find jobs. I hope you guys will be thinking about me. I am looking forward to working with everyone again next year and I am hoping I can talk my sister Claudia into joining the staff. I hope in looking over this book you can see a little bit of what I saw when I examined what Ole Miss was to me. I hope I captured that for you in our book.

See you next year. August
